International Excellence Scholarship Terms and Conditions

- You must have met all conditions of your academic offer and accepted your offer for your course on the application portal. In addition, if applicable, you must have paid a tuition fee deposit of £2,000 by the date specified in your offer letter.
- You must be registered as a University of Leeds student by the registration deadline.
- The scholarship value will be deducted from the tuition fee when you register for the specified taught Masters course in September 2025. This scholarship cannot be used for maintenance or accommodation costs.
- The scholarship can be awarded in conjunction with any available School/Faculty scholarships (excluding Transnational Education scholarships) or external funding as long as this does not exceed 100% of your tuition fees. Transnational Education (TNE) applicants will be awarded either the TNE scholarship or the International Excellence Scholarship, whichever has the higher value.
- This scholarship cannot be deferred to a future year of entry and is non-transferable to other courses at the University of Leeds.
- As a scholarship holder you may be required to participate in selected marketing activities. The University of Leeds continually celebrates the success of its students; by accepting the scholarship you agree to be interviewed and for your interview/photograph/profile/story to appear in University publicity material.

· Scholarship holders may be asked to be involved in multiple aspects of student recruitment, including attendance at open days, schools liaison events and participation in online information sessions with prospective students (please note an additional payment may be made for duties carried out, where appropriate).

· As a scholarship holder you may be required to act as a representative for your course of study. We will expect you to make a positive contribution to your course of study demonstrating leadership qualities, including acting as a role model in your approach to undertaking all learning activities associated with your programme of study.

· By accepting the scholarship you agree that we may share certain data (name, programme of study, student ID, etc.) with other parties within the University. We may use information collected regarding scholarship holders in marketing activities; however, students' email addresses and telephone numbers will not be given out without permission from the student.

· The University reserves the right to utilise this information in the promotion of the University and in any other student recruitment and/or scholarship promotion activities.

· We will terminate the scholarship for any awardee who ceases to be a registered student on the programme of study to which the award has been given at any point throughout the duration of the award. We also reserve the right to terminate your scholarship if you breach any of your commitments as detailed in these Terms and Conditions.
